M. E. CHURCH HEARS BISHOP HUGHES

His Sunday Morning's Sermon Was Indeed Masterpiece

Bishop Hughes' sermon at the M. E. Church Sunday morning was a masterpiece. His text was taken from 1 Thess. 4:18, "Comfort One Another." He stated that when Jesus said He would send the Comforter He used precisely the same expression that Paul used in the text above. From that he drew the conclusion that we are to live Holy Spirit lives. Since the spirit is the biggest part of the man we should have a spiritual attitude toward one another but that most people had a material attitude. He illustrated this point by saying that if we should read in the morning paper that one man had the night before come into possession of half a million dollars and that another man had accepted Christ and through doing this had come into possession of eternal life the great majority of us would congratulate the man who had come into the possession of the material wealth. Within fifty years, he said, most of us will lose what material wealth we may now have. It will pass into the possession of some other man; but the man who has a claim of life eternal will hold that claim forever and forever.

His second point was that we should also have a comforting attitude toward one another. Some men must have their hearts broken before they can amount to anything or be of service to their fellow man. I like Barnabas although he is hidden in the shadow of the great Paul. His name was changed from Joses to Barnabas because he was the son of consolation and comfort. Many a time a person bawled only for sympathy. A little girl was found by one of her playmates sobbing bitterly. Her mother had died and the little girl in her loneliness had left her other playmates and was found with her head upon the desk, crying. Her little friend put her arm about the neck of the child who was weeping, lay her head beside that of her playmate and in sympathy for her wept too. "Mamma," she said, "when I did that she felt better. Why?" She asked a question which has puzzled psychologists but nevertheless discovered a truth.

In being like the Holy Spirit we can also convict men of righteousness, judgment, etc. In our sphere. We can hold up good ideals rather than rebuking too often and thus guide people into truth. In concluding the enumeration of the offices of the Holy Spirit he said that we too could show men things to come. Now, he said, you think I have come to a stone wall but I am right this time too and I will prove it. He related two points that illustrated his point very vividly. A few years ago in Boston, Mass., a young man came into his study and after a short conversation he detected the smell of liquor on the young man's breath. Whereupon he said, calling the young man by name "I know your father is a drunkard and that your mother too drinks but always believed that you did not drink. Stop it now or in a few years you will be in a drunkard's grave. Three years after he smothered out his wretched life in the river. The second was likewise the story of a young man but it illustrated the other side of the question. This young man's ideals were high and his life clean. He predicted for him that he would soon be the head man in his business, a leading man in town and be prominent in the church. This had been fulfilled in almost every detail and although the young man was not yet at the top in his business he was well up the ladder and still climbing.

If you are like the Holy Spirit you will glorify Jesus for that was the office of the Holy Spirit. If I hear a man using the name of the Holy Spirit continually and leaving out the name of Christ I know that man has not yet learned all that he may know about the Holy Spirit. His illustration of this point was especially striking. There are two great lights that light the world, the greater is the sun, the lesser, the moon. You sit on your lawn on a moonlight night and enjoy the beauty of the scene but the moon is the central attraction of it all. The moon glorifies herself and not the landscape to any great extent. How different with the sun. This morning some of you had a sunrise prayer meeting on the top of Punahou. Before the dawn a haze hung over the mountains, a mist over the sea and the plants and trees seemed everywhere to be covered with cobwebs. As the mist is lifted from the sea all nature lies before you beautified: the cobwebs have disappeared. What did it? The sun. Look at her and she smiles you. Your eyes turn again to the landscape. The sun does not glorify herself, it is her duty to glorify the earth. Likewise the minister should rise in his pulpit and immediately disappear behind the cross. A union Sunday School service was held in the English church in the morning. Songs were sung in English, Japanese, Korean and Russian.

Dr. Boyard preached at the evening service. Dr. Boyard is the editor of the California Christian Advocate. Next Sunday evening the Central Union Church a union service of the two churches is to be held, at which Bishop will preach.

ST. VITUS' DANCE HELPED AT ONCE

Patient Improved Steadily and Was Cured.

A Case at Pasadena Which Showed Astonishing Results Under the Tonic Treatment.

Most cases of St. Vitus' dance may be quickly cured if taken in time. If neglected, complications are liable to ensue which will prevent recovery for months and years.

The disease is an affection of the nervous system and may affect the entire body or perhaps one side or certain muscles. It occurs often when the second teeth appear or when there is a special strain on the nerves, such as overstudy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure St. Vitus' dance because they build up the blood and supply vitality to the wasted nerve centres. Of this remedy Mr. J. C. Merrill, of No. 885 Winona avenue, Pasadena, Cal., says:

"My son, Vance, suffered from St. Vitus' dance as a result of being scared when he was six years old. He broke down soon after school closed. The disease started with the muscles of his face and shoulders twitching. The muscles of his eyes and neck were also affected. His heart was affected and we had to be very careful not to excite or scare him. He was fretful, easily irritated, pale and greatly run down. He was so nervous that we could not send him to school.

"He was treated by a number of doctors but was not cured. Then upon the advice of a neighbor, whose daughter had been cured of St. Vitus' dance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, we could not notice relief from the first box as he became quieter. He improved steadily, took on flesh right away and was cured. It has been over a year now since he took the pills and we have noticed no signs of the disease at all. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the first medicine I would use for St. Vitus' dance."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are guaranteed by the manufacturers to contain no opiate, narcotic or anything that could injure the most delicate system. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.
